

What's new in Bali for 2017: Top places to eat, stay and play

Ian Lloyd Neubauer, Escape
October 25, 2016 8:55am

Bali is the most popular overseas destination for Australians after New Zealand – more than one million of us will visit next year.

We love its sunsets and surf, its family-friendly resorts and luxury accommodation.

Here are the best new resorts, restaurants and experiences that visitors can look forward to next year.

GETTING MARRIED?

Also new for Uluwatu's "millionaire row" for 2017 is Villa Markisa, a palatial five-bedroom villa set within the grounds of Pandawa Cliff Estate. Hovering over the ocean with rolling green lawns, a clifftop infinity-edge pool and a romantic one-bedroom master suite with its own living room and pool, Villa Markisa can accommodate up to 100 wedding guests.

But when combined with four other interconnected villas at Pandawa Cliff Estate, the new addition raises the ante to 400 wedding guests and 21 double rooms.

Add a small army of staff – wedding planners, butlers, chauffeurs, bartenders, chefs, florists, photographers, caterers and celebrants – and drop-dead gorgeous clifftop views, and Villa Markisa has the makings for Bali's ultimate wedding destination.

pandawacliffestate.com

Villa Markisa at Pandawa Cliff Estate. Picture: Supplied

<http://www.escape.com.au/world/asia/whats-new-in-bali-for-2017-top-places-to-eat-stay-and-play/news-story/841620657a42147b082e097a7147208e>