Whether you're looking for an intimate getaway with the family or a luxurious space to enjoy and indulge with friends, you can never go wrong with a few nights in a villa in Bali. We round up 10 breathtakingly luxurious villas on the Island of the Gods

NOKU Beach House

Best for: Young couples or groups of friends

Sleeps: Up to 12 guests, six bedrooms

Finding the balance between fun and luxurious is tricky, but the designers behind NOKU Beach House have it in spades with this tropical oasis—it even has its own radio station with music curated by some of the world's leading DJ's and a fully staffed commercial kitchen should guests decide to throw a soirée in the spacious shaded pool balé and dining area, which is furnished with Arabian style daybeds.

All six bedrooms—including three with oceanfront views—boast exquisite linens, state-of-the-art sound systems and beautiful tropical bathrooms. The villa's 27-metre swimming pool features shallow sunken areas for soaking up the sun and the property is just a stone's throw from the beach, while a private walled spa with a mosaic-tiled plunge pool can be reached through a stunning colonnade featuring Japanese style ponds and a waterfall.

Situated in bustling Seminyak, it's the perfect home base for exploring the area's world class restaurants and beach clubs.

Kaba Kaba Estate

Best for: Those in search of space and serenity

Sleeps: Up to 14 guests, eight bedrooms

Looking to live like Balinese royalty? If so, it's hard to look past Kaba Kaba Estate, which sits over a sprawling 1.2 hectares of green, palm-tree dotted lawns on the southern coast of Bali.

Its eight ensuite rooms—some of which sit in independent pavilions for guests looking for extra privacy—are tastefully dressed in luxurious Balinese fabrics like silk and ikat. There's a luxuriously large pool, and various sitting areas throughout the property that make the most of the serene surroundings, encouraging guests to slow down and take it all in.

The villa offers an extensive individually priced menu of Balinese, Indonesian, western, vegetarian and children's meals prepared by a dedicated chef, while cocktails, wines and spirits, liqueurs and cigars are also available upon request. There's also a spa with two massage tables—plus two portable tables for poolside or in-room treatments—spa bath, private garden and balé. What more could you want from a holiday in Bali?

Villa Kayajiwa

Best for: An insta-worthy hideout in the heart of it all

Sleeps: Up to eight guests, four bedrooms

The 'wow' factor hits instantly at this beautifully designed villa, situated an easy 20-minute walk from the beach in Canggu's trendy Batu Bolong area. Villa Kayajiwa is built to entertain, from the industrial-chic design that surrounds an L-shaped pool to the furnished rooftop sun terrace with a barbeque pit dedicated and finally, a dedicated karaoke room. There are also tropical gardens overlooking rice fields, and it doesn't get more Bali than that.

Inside, the four bedrooms are spectacularly decorated in rich hues and Balinese art, which is balanced by earthy tones for an artistic, contemporary aesthetic.

Arnalaya Beach House

Best for: Travellers partial to a more minimal aesthetic

Sleeps: Up to 10 guests, five bedrooms

Echoing its name, which means "rhythm of the waves" in Sanskrit, Arnalaya is a sophisticated modern sanctuary for beach lovers.

The playfully designed outdoor areas are perfect for wandering the grounds or relaxing by the pool, while the interior's clean, earthy tones and textures of concrete, teak and terrazzo create an air of serenity—striking the perfect balance of indoor and outdoor living that Bali is known and loved for.

If keeping healthy and active while on holiday is imperative, Arnayala has its own private gym and tennis court. Oh, and did we mention that the villa has its very own herb garden?
